Angela,

This was the message I was referring to on the phone this morning. I agreed to help Jane's out while she was on a cruise. While she was gone, the septic report came back, so I helped by drafting the amendment for the seller to pay an additional $500 in closing costs to offset the cost they would incur to pump the septic system after closing. I couldn't get a hold of Jane while she was on the ship, but thankfully I was able to access the documents and her notes in our system since we can see each other's files. The seller agreed to the amendment, and we closed June 15th. I think Ryan is just really stressed out with the baby coming and was frustrated that Jane was not at the closing, but it isn't Jane's responsibility to pay for the increased septic pump cost due to the company's mistake. It was his septic company that gave him the quote. This is an interesting claim. Thanks for your help with it.

Hey Mark!

Thanks so much for covering for me while I'm on vacation. I'm available if anything comes up. I'll be gone June 10th and will return on June 15th. We purchased the internet package, so I can text and email while on the ship. I'm happy to help you out in the future!

Thanks so much for all your help!
Jane Clark
